1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiff Douglas Proudlove and his counsel took on significant risks to vindicate the 3 rights of 505 Washington consumers who paid thousands of dollars to Seed to fill out free 4 credit card applications. Mr. Proudlove and Class Counsel developed powerful evidence that 5 Seed worked hand in glove with a series of fraudulent companies that charged tens of 6 thousands of dollars for useless training. Seed and its owners Gantz and Tussy made millions for 7 themselves while leaving consumers with crushing debt. The proposed settlement recovers 8 more than 94% of the fees Seed collected from Washington consumers. Mr. Proudlove seeks a 9 service award and Class Counsel seek reasonable attorneys' fees for they work they did in 10 obtaining that benefit for the Class.

11 Mr. Proudlove requests that the Court award Class Counsel $519,750 in attorneys' fees 12 and $45,427 in litigation costs, and grant Mr. Proudlove a $10,000 service award. Class 13 Counsel's requested attorneys' fee award is 33% of the common fund established for the 14 benefit of the class. The requested award is just over half of Class Counsel's lodestar in this 15 heavily litigated matter. The requested awards are warranted given the time invested by both 16 Class Counsel and Mr. Proudlove in order to obtain the $1,575,000 settlement for the Class.

17 The case settled on the eve of trial. The settlement was reached only after extensive 18 litigation that included briefing and argument on multiple dispositive motions, briefing on many 19 non-dispositive motions, including class certification, nine depositions, expert work, and trial 20 preparation. Mr. Proudlove prevailed on nearly every contested motion in this case. Class 21 Counsel's requested fee and cost award is reasonable in light of the time they invested in the 22 case in order to obtain an excellent outcome for the Class.

23 The $10,000 service award Mr. Proudlove requests is warranted by his extensive efforts 24 on behalf of the Class, which included assisting counsel with the investigation of the claims and 25 preparing extensively for and sitting for a deposition. In addition, Mr. Proudlove rejected 26 substantial individual settlement offers so that he could continue to pursue claims for the Class.

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. Class Counsel dedicated thousands of hours to this case over more than two years.

Mr. Proudlove filed this action in May 2020. Over the course of more than two years, the litigation required extensive briefing, voluminous document production, numerous depositions, expert work, and trial preparation. The Court denied Seed’s motion to dismiss based on a forum selection clause two years ago. Sub. No. 36. After Seed failed to fully respond to discovery despite the denial of its motion to dismiss, the Court compelled Seed’s complete responses to Plaintiff’s First Set of Discovery requests to Seed. Sub. No. 58. Plaintiff then obtained leave to amend his complaint to add the individual defendants in this action. Sub. No. 72.

The Court then denied the individual defendants’ motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction (Sub. No. 134). In the same order the Court compelled the individual defendants to fully respond to Plaintiff’s first set of discovery requests propounded to each of them (Sub. No. 134 ¶ 3) and entered a default against Seed (Sub. No. 134 ¶ 5).

The Court entered an order certifying a class of Washington consumers who contracted with Seed and paid its fees. The Court appointed Mr. Proudlove and his counsel to represent the certified Class. Sub. No. 166. Class Counsel provided and paid for the Class notice approved by the Court. Sub. No. 183 (Order approving class notice).

Gantz and Tussy moved for summary judgment on the grounds that the Court lacked personal jurisdiction over them and that they are not personally liable for Seed’s conduct. The Court denied the motion after a hearing on January 7, 2022 (Sub. No. 195), concluding there were genuine issues of material fact related to the individual defendants’ minimum contacts with Washington and their control of the Seed business. Sub. No. 245. Mr. Proudlove’s response to this motion relied heavily on emails that Class Counsel obtained by paying the ESI consultant Seed and Gantz had earlier used to gather and produce documents responsive to a civil investigative demand from the Federal Trade Commission. Chandler Decl. ¶ 13.

1 Mr. Proudlove moved for summary judgment on his and the Class's CPA claims. Mr.
2 Proudlove also sought entry of a default judgment against Seed. The Court found there were 3 genuine issues of material fact regarding personal liability and denied Mr. Proudlove's motion 4 as to the individual defendants. Sub. No. 216. The Court found that as to Seed, the allegations
5 of Mr. Proudlove's complaint would be taken as true at trial and established the first four 6 elements of Mr. Proudlove's and the Class's CPA claim. Sub. Nos. 216 and 303. The Court 7 further entered an order clarifying that the first four elements of Mr. Proudlove's and the 8 Class's CPA claims against Seed were satisfied and did not have to be proven at trial. Sub. No.
9 303.

10 The parties litigated a series of discovery disputes over production of financial records, 11 resulting in a number of Court orders. See Sub. Nos. 208, 249, and 304. Class Counsel deposed 12 Mr. Gantz, Mr. Tussy, and Seed's former bookkeeper. Chandler Decl. ¶ 14. Gantz and Tussy 13 deposed Plaintiff and five other absent class members expected to testify at trial. Id. ¶ 15. Mr.
14 Proudlove's expert also analyzed the financial records produced by defendants and third 15 parties. Id. ¶ 16. Gantz and Tussy had filed a motion to decertify the Class when the parties 16 settled. Sub. No. 361. The parties had also completed ER 904 designations, witness and exhibit 17 lists, proposed jury instructions, motions in limine, and trial briefs when the case settled. See 18 Sub. Nos. 340-404.

19 As reflected in Class Counsel's contemporaneous time records submitted in support of 20 this motion, they spent more than 2,400 hours litigating this case. Chandler Decl. ¶ 19, Ex. 1; 21 Arons Decl. ¶ 3, Ex. 1, Leonard Decl. ¶¶ 2-3, Ex. 1.

22 B. Mr. Proudlove was actively involved in the litigation.

23 Mr. Proudlove committed significant time to this litigation. Early in the case he met with 24 his counsel numerous times to discuss his claims and the factual allegations in the complaint.
25 Arons Decl. ¶ 8. Mr. Proudlove submitted declarations in support of motions. Sub. Nos. 28, 155.
26 He spent more than seven hours preparing for his deposition with counsel and sat for a half day 27 deposition. Arons Decl. ¶ 8. This process was arduous for Mr. Proudlove because of his health

1 issues. Arons Decl. ¶ 8. Mr. Proudlove rejected individual offers of settlement as high as 2 $55,000 so that he could continue to pursue claims on behalf of the class members. Arons Decl.
3 ¶ 8. Without Mr. Proudlove’s efforts, absent class members would not have recovered any of 4 the fees they paid to Seed Capital.

5 III. STATEMENT OF ISSUES

6 Should the Court approve the requested attorneys’ fees, litigation costs, and service 7 awards?

8 IV. EVIDENCE RELIED UPON

9 Mr. Proudlove relies on the Declarations of Blythe H. Chandler, Paul Arons, and Sam
10 Leonard in support of this motion, and the exhibits attached thereto. Mr. Proudlove also relies 11 on the documents filed with his Motion for Preliminary Approval.

12 V. ARGUMENT AND AUTHORITY

13 Class Counsel requests that the Court approve payments from the settlement fund of 14 $519,750 in attorneys’ fees and $45,427 for their documented out-of-pocket expenses.<sup>1</sup> Class 15 Counsel’s request warrants approval. Class Counsel fully disclosed to the Class their intent to 16 request fees and costs to be paid from the settlement fund in the Court-approved notice and 17 will post this motion and the supporting documentation on the settlement website within one-18 business day of filing it with the Court. Settlement Agreement § IV.1.

19 Where, as here, counsel in a class action seek fees from the common fund, courts have 20 discretion to employ either the lodestar method or percentage-of-recovery method to calculate 21 a reasonable fee. Bowles v. Washington Dep’t of Ret. Sys., 121 Wn.2d 52, 72, 847 P.2d 440 22 (1993). When determining the appropriate fee from a common fund, the percentage-of-the-23 fund method is preferred. Id. As a matter of public policy, awarding fees from the common fund 24 promotes “greater access to the judicial system” by making it easier for class action plaintiffs to 25 _____

26 <sup>1</sup> The $37,000 in costs that Class Counsel described in Mr. Proudlove’s motion for preliminary 27 approval of the settlement did not include a final bill from Plaintiff’s forensic accounting experts.

1 obtain counsel. Id. Class Counsel’s request is reasonable under either percentage-of-recovery or 2 lodestar analysis.

3 A. Percentage-of-recovery analysis supports Class Counsel’s fee request.

4 Under the “percentage of recovery” method attorneys are awarded a reasonable 5 percentage of the total recovery, “often in the range of 20 to 30 percent.” Bowles, 121 Wn.2d 6 at 72; see also City of Seattle v. Okeson, 137 Wn. App. 1051, 2007 WL 884827 at *7 (2007) 7 (unpublished) (“Twenty to thirty percent of the recovery is a typical benchmark used in 8 awarding attorney fees under the common fund doctrine, but that figure can be adjusted based 9 on the circumstances of the case.”). However, courts in this state can and do award more than 10 30 percent. See A.M. v. Moda Health Plan, Inc., C 14-1191 TSZ, 2015 WL 9839771, at *3 (W.D.
11 Wash. Nov. 3, 2015) (awarding fee of 35% of settlement fund). Here, Class Counsel seek 33% of 12 the common fund, similar to fees that have been approved by Washington Superior Courts over 13 recent years. See Long v. First Resolution Investment Corp., No. 19-2-11281-6 SEA, Final 14 Approval Order and Judgment ¶ 21 (King Cnty. Sup. Ct. Aug. 28, 2020) (attached to Chandler 15 Decl. as Ex. 2); Strong v. Numerica Credit Union, No. 17-2-01406-39, Order Granting Plaintiff’s 16 Unopposed Motion for Final Approval of Class Action Settlement and Award of Attorneys’ Fees, 17 Costs and Service Award ¶ 19 (Yakima Cnty. Sup. Ct. Feb. 14, 2020) (attached to Chandler Decl.
18 as Ex. 3); Dougherty v. Barrett Business Servs., Inc., No. 17-2-05619-1, Final Approval Order and 19 Entry of Judgment ¶¶ 18-21 (Clark Cnty. Sup. Ct. Nov. 8, 2019) (attached to Chandler Decl. as 20 Ex. 4) (“BBSI Order”); Terrell v. Costco Wholesale Corp., No. 16-2-19140-1 SEA, Order Approving 21 Award of Attorneys’ Fees and Costs (King Cnty. Sup. Ct. June 19, 2018) (attached to Chandler 22 Decl. as Ex. 5) (“Costco Order”).

23 Class Counsel’s request is warranted given the significant value to the Class provided by 24 the Settlement. Class members will receive approximately 60% of the allegedly unlawful fees 25 they paid to Seed. The settlement also prohibits Seed, Gantz, and Tussy from operating a credit 26 services business in Washington ever again.

1           The recovery is particularly impressive given that the claims in this case were far from 2 risk-free. Mr. Proudlove was confident in the strength of his case but also aware of the risk 3 created by Gantz and Tussy’s personal jurisdiction defenses. Mr. Gantz and Mr. Tussy—the only 4 defendants with assets to pay a judgment in this case—maintained that because they were not 5 physically present in Washington and did not directly communicate with Mr. Proudlove or the 6 Class Members, they did not have sufficient minimum contacts with the state of Washington 7 for this Court to exercise personal jurisdiction. The Court is aware of Mr. Proudlove’s extensive 8 evidence of minimum contacts from the summary judgment briefing but this was a hotly 9 contested factual issue. Even if Mr. Proudlove and the Class prevailed at trial, lack of personal 10 jurisdiction was an issue the individual defendants may have continued to contest through 11 appeals.

12           Further, because Gantz and Tussy and their property and assets are located outside of 13 the state of Washington, they could have taken a number of steps to make it extremely difficult 14 to collect on any judgment obtained at trial. If Mr. Proudlove and the Class prevailed, it could 15 have been years before class members recovered anything. The settlement, by contrast, 16 provides a guaranteed recovery for all Class Members, including through a series of provisions 17 that ensure payment. Specifically, Mr. Gantz and Mr. Tussy have agreed to pre-fund the 18 settlement and have signed a confession of judgment that waives personal jurisdiction defenses 19 and that Mr. Proudlove may file with the Court if Defendants fail to fully fund the settlement in 20 a timely manner.

21           The $1,575,000 settlement would not have been achieved without Class Counsel’s 22 zealous pursuit of discovery in this matter, including documents and information in the 23 possession of Seed’s former bookkeeper and documents produced by Seed and Gantz to the 24 FTC. Class Counsel’s willingness to bring discovery disputes to the Court and their successful 25 responses to two motions to dismiss and a motion for summary judgment, as well as their 26 partial success on an affirmative motion for summary judgment, made this outcome possible 27 for the Class.

1 B. Class Counsel’s fee request is far less than their lodestar in the case and consistent with 2 the ethics guidance on reasonableness of fees.

3 While the percentage approach provides an independent ground for granting the fee 4 request, a “cross-check” under the lodestar method also demonstrates that counsel’s request is 5 reasonable. See Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) (“MCL 4th”) § 14.121 (noting “[a] 6 number of courts favor the lodestar as a backup or cross-check on the percentage method 7 when the fees might be excessive”). “Under the lodestar/multiplier method, the district court 8 first calculates the ‘lodestar’ by multiplying the reasonable hours expended by a reasonable 9 hourly rate. See generally Bowers v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co., 100 Wn.2d 581, 597–99, 675 10 P.2d 193, 203–04 (1983). The court may then enhance the lodestar with a ‘multiplier,’ if 11 necessary, to arrive at a reasonable fee.” Id.

12 Here, Class Counsel have devoted over 2,400 hours to the investigation, development, 13 litigation, and resolution of this case, incurring over $954,000 in fees. Chandler Decl. ¶ 19, Ex. 1; 14 Arons Decl., Ex. 1; Leonard Decl., Ex. 1. This total does not include more than 149 hours of 15 professional staff time written off by the Terrell Marshall Law Group through exercise of billing 16 judgment, or time spent working on a motion for sanctions for which Class Counsel was 17 previously awarded fees. Chandler Decl. ¶ 19, Ex. 1 (time entries in red are not included in 18 lodestar calculation). Class Counsel spent considerable time investigating the claims of the Class 19 members, researching and analyzing legal issues, briefing numerous motions, taking written 20 discovery, third party discovery, and depositions, and working with experts. Class Counsel’s 21 work was essential to ensure the successful prosecution and settlement of this complex action.

22 Class Counsel’s lodestar calculations also are based on reasonable hourly rates.
23 In assessing the reasonableness of an attorney’s hourly rate, courts consider “the usual billing 24 rate, the court may consider the level of skill required by the litigation, time limitations imposed 25 on the litigation, the amount of the potential recovery, the attorney’s reputation, and the 26 undesirability of the case.” Bowers, 100 Wn.2d at 587. Class Counsel are experienced, highly 27 regarded members of the bar with extensive expertise in the area of class actions and complex

1 litigation involving claims like those at issue here, and the Court approved Class Counsel's 2 hourly rates ranging from $325-$550 when the Court awarded Class Counsel their fees as a 3 sanction for Defendants' discovery misconduct. Sub. No. 305. Similar or higher rates have been 4 approved numerous times in class action cases. See, e.g., Costco Order (approving similar rates
5 for Terrell Marshall); Barnett v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., No. 01-2-24553-8 (King Cnty. Sup. Ct. July 6 20, 2009) (Judge Spector approving fee request based on rates ranging from $100 to $760); 7 Splater v. Thermal Ease Hydronic Systems, Inc., No. 03-2-33553-3 (King Cnty. Sup. Ct. July 31, 8 2009) (Judge Washington approving fee request based on rates ranging from $100 to $760); 9 Bowen v. CSO Financial, Inc., et al., No. 17-cv-00677, ECF No. 38, at 3 (W.D. Wash. July, 10, 10 2018) (approving Plaintiff's counsel's fee request based on rates similar as those requested 11 here); Carideo v. Dell, Inc., No. 06-cv-01772, ECF No. 162 (W.D. Wash. Dec. 17, 2010) (approving 12 as reasonable a fee petition which included rates ranging from $175 to $600); Hartman v.
13 Comcast Business Communications, LLC, No. 10-0413, ECF No. 106 (W.D. Wash. Dec. 8, 2011) 14 (approving fee request based on rates ranging from $180 to $650).

15 Class Counsel's requested fee of $519,750 is $434,000 less than their lodestar in the 16 case, even after counsel made reductions to reflect billing judgment. The lodestar cross-check 17 thus confirms that the requested are reasonable.

18 Finally, the Washington Supreme Court has said that the factors set out in Rule of 19 Professional Conduct 1.5(a) may also guide a court's analysis of the reasonableness of a fee 20 request. See Mahler v. Szucs, 135 Wn.2d 398, 433 n.20, 957 P.2d 632 (1998) (overruled on 21 other grounds). Those factors include the novelty and difficulty of the question involved and 22 the skill requisite to perform the legal services properly, whether the representation precludes 23 other employment by the lawyer, the fee customarily charged in the locality for similar legal 24 services, and the amount involved and the results obtained. Here, the case raised novel and 25 difficult questions of law, which demanded litigators with the skill and experience of Class 26 Counsel, Class Counsel's work on this matter precluded work on other matters, a one-third fee 27

1 in contingency cases is customary in this State, and Class Counsel obtained excellent results for 2 the Class. See BBSI Order; Costco Order at ¶ 6.

3 C. Class Counsel seeks litigation costs that would be charged to a paying client.

4 Class Counsel have expended $45,427 in litigation expenses related to the prosecution 5 of this action, including filing and service expenses, expert fees, document production costs, 6 investigator fees, postage, travel, court reporting and transcript production costs, and 7 mediation expenses. Chandler Decl. ¶ 23; Arons Decl., Ex. 2. The costs incurred were 8 reasonable, necessary to the successful conclusion of this litigation and are the types of costs 9 normally charged to a paying client. See Newberg on Class Actions § 16.10 (explaining that class 10 counsel can typically recover from a common fund costs that would “normally be charged to a 11 paying client”); Harris v. Marhoefer, 24 F.3d 16, 19 (9th Cir. 1994) (counsel should recover 12 “those out-of-pocket expenses that would normally be charged to a fee paying client”); see also 13 Absher Const. Co. v. Kent Sch. Dist. No. 415, 79 Wash. App. 841, 848, 917 P.2d 1086, 1090
14 (1995) (online legal research fees recoverable as costs); In re Immune Response Sec. Litig., 497 15 F. Supp. 2d 1166, 1177-1178 (S.D. Cal. 2007) (finding that costs such as filing fees, photocopy 16 costs, travel expenses, postage, telephone and fax costs, computerized legal research fees, and 17 mediation expenses are relevant and necessary expenses in a class action litigation).

18 D. The Class Representatives’ requested service awards should be approved.

19 “At the conclusion of a class action, the class representatives are eligible for a special 20 payment in recognition of their service to the class.” Rubenstein, William B., Newberg on Class 21 Actions § 17:1 (5th ed. Dec. 2019). Courts approve service awards in most class suits and the 22 awards average between ten and fifteen thousand dollars per class representative. Id. Service 23 payments “are intended to compensate class representatives for work undertaken on behalf of 24 a class” and “are fairly typical in class action cases.” In re Online DVD-Rental Antitrust Litig., 25 779 F.3d 934, 943 (9th Cir. 2015) (citation omitted); see Probst v. State of Washington Dep’t of 26 Ret. Sys., 150 Wn. App. 1062, 2009 WL 1863993, at *6 (2009) (unpublished) (affirming payment 27 of $7,500 to named plaintiff). Such awards are intended to compensate class representatives

1 for work done on behalf of the class, to make up for financial or reputational risk undertaken in 2 bringing the action, and to recognize their willingness to act as private attorneys general.

3 Mr. Proudlove requests a service award of $10,000 in recognition of his efforts on behalf 4 of the Class, which include assisting counsel with the investigation, litigation, and settlement of 5 the case. Mr. Proudlove expended significant time and effort in this matter, consistently putting 6 the Class members' interests first. He provided information to their counsel during counsel's 7 investigation of the case, sat for deposition, and evaluated the settlement terms. Mr. Proudlove 8 did these things despite significant health challenges that make speaking for long periods of 9 time difficult. Arons Decl. ¶ 8. He also rejected large individual settlement offers in favor of 10 pursuing the class members' claims. Mr. Proudlove's efforts and willingness to pursue this action 11 resulted in substantial benefits to the Class. He requests a reasonable award in line with service 12 awards approved in other cases. See, e.g., Burnett v. Wal-Mart Stores, No. 01-2-24553-8 SEA, 13 2009 WL 2194864 (King Cnty. Sup. Ct. July 20, 2009) (approve service awards of $10,000 each to 14 three class representatives); Probst, 150 Wn. App. at *6 (affirming $7,500 incentive award).

15 VI. CONCLUSION

16 Mr. Proudlove and Class Counsel respectfully request that the Court approve the 17 requested attorneys' fees, costs, and service awards, because they are reasonable in light of the 18 work required to achieve the settlement obtained for the Class.

19 VII. LCR 7(B)(5)(B)(VI) CERTIFICATION

20 I certify that the foregoing memorandum contains 3,474 words in compliance with the
